Mike Montagne, Biologist; USFWS:

All through the United States there's thousands of these dams that are really no longer serving any purpose.

[Dams] can cause unwanted flooding; it can cause deaths from people drowning just because of the change in hydrology. All of these things are really dangerous. When [dams] are not being used any more it's really a good idea to try to get rid of some of these old structures that are just causing problems.

If we're going to see it's going to make this stretch of River a much nicer stretch, potentially a paddling trail for the people of Texas as well.
